Overview

This course will provide language teachers with a background in language assessment concepts, techniques, and tools to facilitate and advocate for valid and reliable assessment both in and outside of the classroom, and to evaluate and critique the tests students may need to take at various times in their lives. Students will apply their skills to example tests in class, as well as those they may be using as teachers. Class discussion and a spirit of collaboration are strongly encouraged.

Objectives

Students of this class should be able to:

- Demonstrate understanding of the core concepts of assessment
 - Evaluate language assessments both in the classroom and elsewhere
 - Construct valid and reliable language assessments
 - Analyze and interpret test results
 - Advocate for sane assessment policies in the classroom and beyond

Grading

Reading quizzes (10%)

Prior to each session, there will be a short online quiz on the assigned reading for the day.

Assignments (50%)

Prior to each session, there will be one or two assignments to complete. We will discuss these in class.

Final Assignment (40%)

At the end of the course, there will be a final test/project with which to demonstrate your skills.

Late Work

As the topics build and assignments form the basis of each session, I will not accept late work.

Tentative Schedule

The following is a rough schedule of topics to be covered each day. Generally speaking, we will move from review to introduction of new material, to guided practice, to independent practice. Reading and practice assignments will be available on Google Classroom. Readings in the Brown & Abeywickrama text are designated by a 📖; others are designated by a 📄. Optional readings are in italics.
